

SUGGESTIONS TO SICK WOMEN

How Many Are Restored To Health.

First.—Almost every operation in our hospitals performed upon women becomes necessary through neglect of such symptoms as backache, irregular and painful periods, displacements, pain in the side, burning sensation in the stomach, bearing down pains, nervousness, dizziness and sleeplessness.

Second.—The medicine most successful in relieving female ills is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It regulates and strengthens the organism; it overcomes disease.

For forty years it has been making women strong and well, relieving backache, nervousness, ulceration and inflammation, weakness, displacements, irregularity and periodic pains. It has also proved invaluable in preparing for childbirth and the Change of Life.

Third.—The great number of unsolicited testimonials on file at the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., many of which are from time to time published by permission, are proof of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, in the treatment of female ills.

Fourth.—Every ailing woman in the United States is cordially invited to write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass., for special advice. It is free, will bring you health and may save your life.

NEW MELANGE OF MINSTRELSY AT BIJOU THEATER

"Bronze Revue" Changes Program Monday and Thursday; Strain is Producer

"A melange of minstrelsy, comedy, mirth and harmony" is the manner chosen by the management of the Bijou theater for billing the "Bronze Revue," the company of talented colored players now appearing at that house. This description fitted like a glove the opening program of these players, and, from the best available information—Frank Poole and Hen Wise—the same will prove a fit to all changes of program, which are to come twice a week during the engagement at the Bijou, Monday and Thursday having been nominated as the days on which the change takes place.

Consequently tonight ushers in a new bill, with new songs, new dances, new sketches and new reasons for folk to laugh. The word "new" is used as against last week's program, as it is probable that all the songs, all the dances and all the acts cetera will not be new; the life of minstrelsy depending largely on the popular ballads that have come down from the early days of this form of entertainment. In this regard we find Chauncey Gileott, according to a program of "Haverly's Original Minstrel Troupe," dated September 1, 1879, singing "When the Leaves Begin to Turn," at Her Majesty's theater, London, while the same program included "Massa in the Cold, Cold Ground," and "Always Keep a Smile for Mother." These ballads are minstrel "classics" and only improve with time. "Silver Threads Among the Gold" is as popular today as when Richard Jones, the Cornishman, first sang it as a ballad in the olio of a minstrel show many years ago.

An elaborate program has been arranged for presentation tonight, Dor Strain being the producer for the Poole-Wise organization and giving freely of his long experience in vaudeville, stock and at the head of his own road show. Several clever song numbers are on the program, which is divided into two parts, with a special act by Will C. Washington, entitled "A World of Pleasure in One," following the intermission.

'MORTMAIN' PLOT PROVES CLEVER

There being no means of sending out an "S. O. S." to the S. S. St. Louis, it was necessary for the Liberty theater to make a change in its program last night. However, the Liberty patrons were the gainers through the change and witnessed the running of an additional feature film that proved a genuine surprise and enjoyable evening's entertainment.

"David Garrick," with Dustin Farnum in the title role, had been billed as the feature attraction. This film was on board the St. Louis for the entertainment of the sailors during their leisure hour at sea for, be it known, the St. Louis is fitted with screen and projecting machine like a well-regulated theater and is so equipped. The "added starter" in the film was "Mortmain," with Robert Edeson in the name part.

"Mortmain" might well be classed as odd in the film world. It is a gripping story which deals largely with the scientific theory of grafting the limb of one human being on that of another. Mortmain meets with an accident upon learning of the murder of a man to whom he is deeply in debt and who had planned to throw him into bankruptcy because Mortmain met with favor in the eyes of the girl he loved. While under the effects of the anesthetic for a minor operation to his arm Mortmain has a horrible dream in which he loses an arm, buys one for $10,000 and later learns that the sale is made by the brother of the girl he loves, which naturally loses him the girl. It is not until he regains consciousness that he, or the audience, realize that it is but a

Movie Director Responsible For "September Morn"

Dr. Stafford Makes Quick Deal for Props, and Filipino Laborer is Sans Trousers

Some one once said that clothes do not make the man, but Dr. H. G. Stafford, director of the Aloha Film Company, and one Filipino believe that they help out in a pinch. Inasmuch as the price of barrels has gone up there may be one Filipino in Honolulu still sans trousers.

In addition to being a director Dr. Stafford is somewhat of a screen artist. In his film depicting a story of Hawaii, Stafford was cast as a Portuguese adventurer. Directors usually dress in a modest fashion, and not knowing that he would be called upon to face the camera, Stafford did not bring an extensive wardrobe. Consequently he was shy one pair of worn trousers. He could have bought a new pair, but they wouldn't do.

He resolved to find one pair of trousers, and after a search along the waterfront before he departed for Hilo, saw a Filipino wearing just the kind of trousers that he needed. He offered the man 25, 50 and 75 cents, but the Filipino refused. Then he offered $1. That caught the man, and he said that he would bring the pants to Stafford. Nothing doing on that line, according to Stafford. He wanted them right away, and after 28 seconds of argument convinced the laborer and the trousers were forthcoming. Stafford used them in the picture, and the Filipino when last seen was posing as a "September Morn" behind a pile of lumber on the waterfront.

FILM PIONEER ON HAWAII PROGRAM

Edith Storey, who appears as Mary Brooks in "The Two-Edged Sword" at the Hawaii theater, is a pioneer in the photo-play world, having graduated from the stage to the newer art. She commenced her theatrical career at the age of 10 years (she is now 22) as an extra with Eleanor Robson in "Audrey." So marked was her dramatic ability that she was engaged to play the part of a child in "The Little Princess," and was with this attraction for three seasons, also a like period with "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch." Her last stage work was in "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm."

"The Two-Edged Sword" is probably the most elaborate offering in which this star has yet appeared, also the heaviest part she has been called upon to portray. The supporting cast, which includes such favorites as Josephine Earle, Marion Henry, Everett Overton, Robert Galland, Logan Paul and Nellie Anderson, worked hard throughout the five-reel production and ably assisted the featured star.

"The Trey of Hearts" is the Hawaii serial and it is in keeping with the Hawaii features, strong with action.

TERAUCHI MINISTRY PLANS DEVELOPMENT OF NATION'S DEFENSE

(Associated Press by Federal Wire) TOKIO, Japan, Oct. 9.—The strengthening of the national defense is one of the cardinal principles of the new Terauchi ministry, according to an announcement of the administration's program, just made public. The new platform includes as well a pledge for the propagation of the constitutionalism, the development of the educational system, aid and encouragement to home industries, an improvement in local self-government for the various kens and municipalities and a revision of the financial system of the government.

It is understood that Baron Kato, former foreign minister, has refused to support the new combination, but it is expected that the Conservatives will remain neutral between the Terauchi cabinet and the Radicals.

WEEKLY PRODUCE REPORT

By A. T. LONGLEY, Marketing Superintendent.
WEEK ENDING OCT. 6, 1916
ISSUED BY THE TERRITORIAL MARKETING DIVISION

WEEKLY MARKET LETTER

Select island eggs seem to be getting scarcer. Some dealers report that they are selling for 70c. wholesale, but the average price pays about 65c. Duck eggs remain about the same as last week. There is a good demand for all kinds of poultry except ducks.

It looks as though the demand for island turkeys will be good this year but as yet no producer has reported to the division that he will have birds to ship. It will be important for the producers, just as soon as possible, to report how many birds they will have, and let either the division or the dealers know in advance, in order that arrangements can be made to dispose of them at a good price and to prevent large numbers of imported birds being sold.

There is very little change in the quotations on vegetables and other produce. Pumpkins have become very scarce in the past week, and there are no more Bermuda onions in the market. Breadfruit is beginning to make its appearance. Papayas have advanced to 13-14c.

Livestock and dressed meat prices remain the same as formerly. There has been an increase in the price of hides recently. Producers will now get 1c a pound more.

There have been several changes in the price of feed during the past week, most of them in favor of the consumer.

IN WAR ARENA

RUMANIANS RETREAT IN TRANSYLVANIA

PARIS, France, Oct. 9.—The most important development of the fighting on the various war fronts yesterday was the enforced retreat of the Rumanian armies from the positions they had taken in the Transylvanian region, including the evacuation of Kronstadt, Hermannstadt and Forgas.

The official account of the retreat comes from Bucharest, which announced last night that the Rumanian troops on their lines from Hermannstadt to Brassao had been "compelled to fall back to the Carpathian frontier for the better defense of the passes leading into Rumania."

In the Dobruja district, farther east, the fighting has been resumed for the control of the Cernavoda-Constanza railway, the keystone of the Rumanian-Russian army in that section of the fighting field.

Allies Forge Ahead in West

In the western front the British have continued their gains north of the river Somme. The outskirts of the little village of Le Sars, on the Albert-Bapaume road, and to which the Germans clung desperately Saturday when the assault of the British forced them out of the town itself, have now fallen to repeated assaults of Sir Douglas Haig.

The British did not stop there, according to their own and the French official reports last night, but swept onward to the north for some distance, drawing nearer and nearer to Bapaume.

Sir Douglas Haig also struck vicious blows against the Germans to the north of Courcellette, pushing back the Teuton lines and gaining more territory.

Teutons Take Trenches

Southeast of Guedecourt the British also attacked with such fury that they drove the Teutons back and established themselves in the advance trenches which had belonged to the men under the Crown Prince Rupprecht.

To the south and east of this point the Germans launched a number of counter attacks and report the winning of advanced British trenches in the vicinity of Les Boeufs.

AUSTRIA CALLS UP EXEMPTED MEN

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 8.—All the exempted men from 14 leagues, up to those 44 years old, have been summoned by the Austro-Hungarian authorities to report for a further examination as to their fitness for active service.

TWO NORWEGIAN SHIPS SUNK IN WAR ZONE

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 8.—The Norwegian consul at Archangel has wired to American officials here that the American steamers Harvita and Columbia have been sunk.

The farm wood lots of the United States contain about 10 per cent of the total standing timber in the country.
